

Dear Parents

This week in the school there has been two themes. The first was Friendship Week, the children chose a special friend to play with throughout the week. They made each other friendship bracelets and we talked about how to be a good friend. Miss Genn read The Rainbow Fish to the children, which is about sharing and being a good friend. The children then made their own rainbow fish and drew lovely pictures of how they can be a good friend.

The second theme of the week was Road Safety week, unfortunately the children could not practise crossing Daws Lane, however we crossed a pretend road in the playground. The children listened to a story about being safe on the road. The children then made lovely pictures of cars and painted a road to use for a display. A few children drew some people to cross the road at the zebra crossing.

The children were so well behaved that they got to make yummy traffic light biscuits, they talked about the different colours on the traffic light and made the right coloured icing. We ended the week with Be Bright Be Seen day, and the children dressed in bright clothes and painted with neon paints.

Jewish Studies in Nursery is still taking place - hoorah! The children are so adaptable and used to talking on FaceTime (thank you parents) that the davening and learning has not changed! We have been thinking about friendship and what it means to be a good friend, we have had some lovely ideas and all the class had a chance at communicating their ideas. We decided that the one thing in common was giving and not hurting. A true life lesson.

Shabbat Shalom
